

New structure for composite institute

- Peter Louwe -

The board of governors has approved an organizational plan for the new BCIT, and it means some people will lose their jobs. The new plan calls for 64 fewer management/administration positions than existed in the two previous institutions.

Competition for 34 excluded/management positions (non-union) in the new organization have been posted, and the balance will be filled by the end of November. Unsuccessful candidates will receive layoff notices effective November 30th.

The announcement was made Monday morning at a semi-secret meeting in the gym. Later that day, BCIT president Roy Murray and board of governors chairman Malcolm Wickson held a press conference to answer questions on the announced changes. The upshot is that, in the words of Murray, there will be a "major reshuffling" of BCIT staff.

To avoid duplication of jobs as the two institutions merge, 50-60 fewer positions will be needed. Sixty percent of those positions, which are all administrative, will be non-union, and forty percent union. According to the circulated BCIT newsletter, "savings in excess of 1.5 million dollars will result from amalgamating the BCIT and the PVI administrations with no anticipated loss of service."

During the press conference, Murray stressed that the savings were one reason for the changes, but the quality of academic and student services will improve. When asked by the Link how this will happen, Murray said "by hiring more people in the library, which we've done. By expanding counselling services and those in recreation and athletics. We're putting money in those areas, not taking it out," he said.

When asked if putting people's jobs on the open market just before Christmas is unfair to those people, Murray responded: "How can we decide who should stay and who should get laid off? We can't - so we put them all on the open market."

BCIT employs about 1400 people. The shuffling will force

450 employees to scramble for about 400 jobs. The sooner the reorganization is complete, the sooner other things can be attended to. Like equipment that is outdated.

BCIT has requested $2 million for the administrative change-over, which includes the cost of office renovations. Can Murray justify the cost of reorganization when equipment is badly needed?

"We hope the capital replacement program is instituted quickly," Murray said. "But we need the renovations to allow us to make savings. We have to be prepared to make an investment to save money in the long term. We have planned $700,000 for renovations on a project-by-project basis."

While non-union jobs are to be posted, union positions will be handled by the unions involved, which, Murray said, will likely be dealt with according to seniority. This is still under discussion with the union components.

The new structure also plans on giving the trades programs a high profile. To do this, trades are being integrated side by side with technology programs under five schools: Health, Sciences, Management, Academic and Vocational studies, Construction and Natural Resources, and Computing and Electro-Mechanical.

New appointments will take effect April first - the anticipated date for merger enactment. But staff will gradually come together over the next few months.

Some management positions will not go to competition and the incumbents will be appointed. They include the deans of Health Sciences and Management, and the director of Medical Services.

Management positions that will be posted (i.e., up for grabs) includes jobs that encompass similar duties at PVI and BCIT, respectively. For example: the president's secretary, the dean of the School of Academic and Vocational studies, director of student housing, director of the physical plant, librarian, director of recreation and athletic services.

Cut-off date for those applying is noon, November 8th. Malcolm Wickson said those losing their jobs will be offered counselling and help in finding new jobs. Murray hoped all winners in the job-grab will be from within the institute.

Student receives V.O. award

Keith Preston, a second year graduating student in the Hospitality and Tourism program at BCIT has been named the school's 1985 recipient of the Seagram's V.O. Hospitality Award. Preston, of North Vancouver, receives a cheque for $500 donated by Seagram's V.O. together with a personalized engraved solid oak plaque.

In the Seagram's V.O. award program - now in its third year - participating institutions set their own criteria for eligibility and selection of candidates. Only students enrolled in hospitality programs at community colleges, technical institutions or universities are eligible to participate.

Keith Preston was selected for the award by a committee on the basis of his academic achievement and high level of participation in department activities. Preston serves as tech president for the 250 students in the Hospitality and Tourism department.

Before enrolling in the BCIT program, Preston saw hospitality industry experience as a cook and bartender. He also holds a Certificate on Mixology.

David Miller, Group product Manager for Seagram Distillers Limited, said that his company is pleased to participate in a program involving the recognition of outstanding students. "We believe programs like this serve to further the development of excellence in the Canadian hospitality industry," he said.

BCIT is one of 29 Canadian colleges and technical institutions across Canada participating in the Seagram's V.O. sponsored program.

The Health Fair packed students into the campus centre - especially popular was the R.C.M.P. Counter Attack slide show.

Alumni fee axed

BCIT's board of governors has decided to rescind the proposed 30-dollar alumni fee. The mandatory graduating fee was planned to be used by the Alumni Association to finance the services to graduates through the Willingdon Club. The $30 fee to join the Willingdon Club was established last spring, but it was optional.

In dropping the extra fee in response to a request from the Student Association, the board of governors said it would kick in $20,000 to cover alumni expenses. The alumni had budgeted expecting to have the funds from the fee available - as had been previously passed by the board. It was student pressure that forced the board to rescind it.

Now the S.A. says it may help out the alumni until further decisions are made on how to fund the association.

Alumni Association director Nicki Magnolo says she's not surprised about the decision. "Actually, I think it's a good sign," she says. "If resistance is that strong, it's a good opportunity to stand back and look at the situation. It could provide us with a less volatile way of funding in the long run."

Any type of funding arrangement in particular?

"None that have been thought through enough to see if they'll work," says Magnolo. "The S.A. has ideas. There may be ways to support the alumni through the S.A."

When asked if that might mean a higher activities fee, Magnolo responded "I don't think so - at least not directly. A fee isn't appropriate." She says now the S.A. seems to realize that some funding arrangement needs to be worked out.

"This isn't the end to discussion, but a mandate to find alternatives," she says. "Hopefully we'll find a better way to help us deal with the students we serve."

S.A. president Troy Nagy agrees that the decision was a good one.

"The S.A. will have to come up with a chunk of money," he says. "It's within our mandate to help the students who worked the phones for the alumni. Our ceiling figure is around $15,000," he says.

Student missing

BCIT student Kim Adam disappeared on October 19th, and hasn't been heard from since. The 25-year-old first year X-ray technician student was planning on going to the Miami Vice dance in Taps, sponsored in part by his technology, Nuclear Medicine.

That night he left his apartment, which he shared with a family friend, but he never made it to BCIT. The missing man's mother, Helga Adam, has alerted the police, and Kim Adam is now considered missing. She has been taking his photograph door to door around the West End, asking people if they've seen him, but he's gone without a trace.

"He just left as if he was going for a walk, he had nothing with him but his clothes," she says.

Kim Adam's bank account is untouched, and all his possessions were left in his apartment.

He is about six feet tall, weighing around 170 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair.

Money available

Individuals and groups interested in forming a club that doesn't fall under the definition of a club in Recreation Services, may now apply for operating and special purpose funds. According to Dave Cox, VP Student Affairs, he has some money available for clubs that wouldn't otherwise quality for funding. He said that clubs interested in money should have 'some sort of structure' and have at least 20 members.

Cox indicated ethnic and cultural clubs would be considered for funding. Cox can be contacted through the S.A. General Office in the SAC Building.

CAMPUS BEAT

- Kelly Reichert -

On Monday night at the Student Association meeting, board members discussed many issues concerning the campus and voted for what they felt were changes to improve and protect the concerns of students.

The Student Association will now be taking a slight percentage of the profit from socializer events being held in Taps Pub on weekends by Techs to raise money for graduation parties at the end of the year.

The board decided they needed more money to fund student service programs, so they've voted to deduct 10 percent of pub profits going towards Tech graduation.

Earlier, Techs holding pub bashes were allowed to keep all profits from the special Tech events. Some Techs have made as much as $1,000 in one night.

Growlies needs a face lift. Mark Coombs, the manager of Taps Pub and Growlies would like to see Growlies renovated to increase capacity and improve cooking facilities.

The Student Association unanimously agreed that the food in Growlies is better than last year, but Coombs would like to see a better variety being served. Because the kitchen does not have proper venting facilities, many items cannot be prepared. Coombs says "their licence doesn't allow them to do much more than boil water."

The Student Association would like to see renovations to increase the seating capacity and improve the kitchen, but they've had estimates at $50,000 and don't really think they can afford to make the renovations.

The current seating for Taps Pub and Growlies is 280.

Vandals will no longer be able to smash the pinball machines in the Student Association building.

Student Association members have decided to erect a metal gate in front of the pinball room to keep bandits from smashing the pinball machines and stealing money from them.

The Arcade will now be closed late at night and on weekends.

Student Association president, Troy Nagy, says the problem has cost the Association about $1,500. Under an agreement between the owners of the machines and the Student Association, the S.A. must pay for half of the cost for repairs to the machine and lost revenue.

For late night arcade addicts, the campus recreation office will have a key to let in people who want to use the pinball and video games facility.

Soccer squad finishes season

The Annual Totem Collegiate Soccer Tournament was held last weekend in Nanaimo. The top four teams were invited to participate in the playoff round to decide who would be this year's champions.

The first game was played between Malaspina and Cariboo College. The winner was Cariboo with a score of 2-1. The 2nd game was between the league champions Capilano College and BCIT. Capilano dominated most of the game and were full value for their 4-0 win. The Cougars put in a good effort, however, it was not enough to overcome the strong Capilano side.

On the second day of the tournament the consolation final was played first with BCIT playing against Malaspina, the winner would take 3rd place and a bronze medal. Malaspina scored early surprising the Cougars, however, the BCIT squad came back and tied the score within 15 minutes. The goal was scored by yen Fong on a nice assist by Pascal Plessis. Malaspina scored twice more before the half ended resulting in a 3-1 lead. The two teams played a scoreless second half with the Cougars controlling the play but could not score. The final score ended in favor of Malaspina who were awarded the bronze medal for their effort.

The final match saw Capilano kick off against Cariboo College a game which would decide this year's champions. Capilano were very strong during the entire match and proved to be the best team in the tournament by defeating Cariboo 4-1. They were awarded the gold medal and the silver went to the Cariboo side.

The awards ceremony ended with an all-star selection of 11 players and an MVP Award which was awarded to the striker of Capilano College. BCIT placed 3 all-stars on the team, they were: Alistair Elliot, defender; Mohammed Rahuma, midfielder and Yen Fong, striker. Congratulations to all the BCIT players who participated in the tournament and we hope that next year will prove to be a more fruitful year in college soccer.

SFU agm Flops

Even the bribe of an address by Son of Sacred author Stan Persky was not enough to draw quorum for an annual general meeting of SFU students last week.

Only about 50 people showed up, 500 less than is required for quorum, necessary to make decisions legally binding.

The Simon Fraser Student Society had hoped to hold a debate in conjunction with the agm, but were unable to find a 'right of centre' opponent for Persky. According to the SFU student newspaper, Persky said he was embarrassed to come and discuss what they already knew, and that it was ridiculous they 'couldn't find anyone to defend these goddam (education) policies.'

During his presentation, Persky slammed the provincial government for its education policies, and gave students reasons why they should not support the social credit government in the next election.

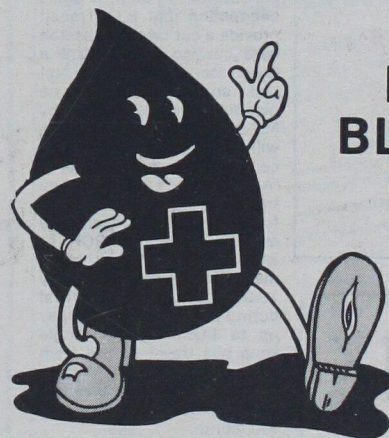

He said that rising tuition, discrimination of foreign students and funding reductions have made the government 'enormously successful in its policies to reduce the enrollment of post-secondary institutions in this province!'

Editorial

Despite some positive signs from new president Roy Murray, BCIT seems to be reverting to its old ways of not telling students what's going on. A memo sent to some staff members late last week indicated there would be a meeting for administration, staff and students, on Monday morning. What a joke!

Students weren't told about the meeting. CFML didn't know about it until it was actually on. The Link wasn't informed about it either. There were no posters, announcements, or indication of any sort, except for a limited circulation memo.

PVI students were told about the meeting while in class. Instructors brought entire classes over to the BCIT gym - overalls and all.

This wasn't some minor housekeeping matter. It was a major announcement on restructuring two large institutions that are merging. For the first time layoffs were specified, and further administrative renovations were announced.

The students are supposed to be a part of the new institute.

Instructors shouldn't be expected to publicize meetings such as this. If they were, we're still in trouble because many of them didn't know about it either.

No doubt the meeting was organized quickly and not a lot of thought went into why the bloody school is here in the first place. If the administration wanted to keep students away, its timing was perfect. Most students are safely tucked away in class in the middle of a Monday morning.

Can you spare 30 minutes?

Editor, The Link,

Giving blood is like giving life to someone. For you, it's just 30 minutes out of your day. For the person who receives your blood, it's a small miracle.

Your donation may be used for major surgery, transplants, hemophilia, anemia, leukemia, infectious diseases or extensive burns.

The actual giving of your blood takes only five to ten minutes. You can then take time for rest and refreshments, and still be out of the clinic within 30 minutes.

Blood cannot be manufactured. To supply the over one million units needed for transfusion therapy each year, donations from people like you and your friends are desperately needed.

So come to the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 12 and 13 at the Racquet Courts Lounge in the SAC Building, 10:30 to 3 p.m.

Donors must be between 17 and 65 years, must be in good health and MUST have a substantial meal before donating - breakfast or lunch (NOT just a coffee and donut). Individuals may make a maximum of four donations yearly (once every three months).

Also note, blood donor restriction following vaccinations: not for three weeks after diphtheria and tetanus vaccinations, not for one week after a polio vaccination, not for three months after measles and rubella vaccinations, and not for one month after BCG (Tuberculosis) vaccination.

See you there!

Medical Services

If he had composed the question on the leaflet, 'Would you be in favour of paying more for BC Transit than you are now?', it would have elicited a more appropriate response to his proposals.

Not to condemn Mr. Stuart too harshly, his argument for a concession card was going great, dollars and sense, time/travel studies, etc...made a convincing argument until he just pissed it all away in his recommendation for an additional levy during peak travel times. Furthermore, he and the BC Transit Authority expressed concern (fear), that if the card were introduced, the system wouldn't be able to handle the excess users. Someone ought to give them both a basic lesson in the principles of supply and demand.

At any rate, if you the students at BCIT want a concession farecard, one which will enable you to use public transit economically, then get busy and write to your aldermen, mayors, MLA's and whatever other politico you can. To paraphrase Mr. Newton, "to get reaction there must first be action," and a blatant reminder to our politicians that you hold his vote in your hand may be action enough.

Open house meeting

Editor, The Link,

As the middle of November rolls around, preparations for Open House 1986 are under way.

Every two years this event captures the imagination of students and the general public alike. And, this Open House is special because it includes the PVI campus for the first time. Special also because we want everybody to join in and help out.

On November 13, a meeting will be held in the S.A. Boardroom in the SAC for all BCIT and PVI students and staff who want to help put together Open House. Remember, upwards of 80,000 people are expected to attend. The meeting starts at 6 p.m.

At present people are needed to co-ordinate technology displays and to fill MANY support positions. If you are interested, attend the meeting and/or leave a message for Tim or Ron at the S.A. General Office. Please leave your name, technology and phone number.

Farecard no concession

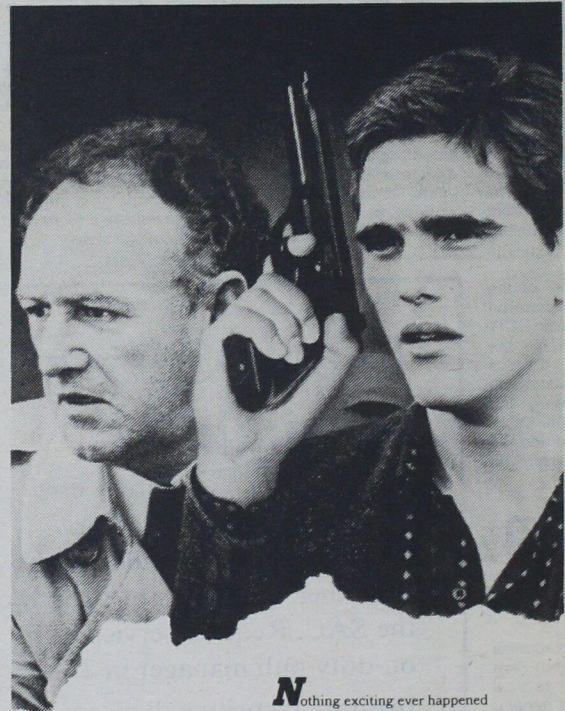

Editor, The Link,

Doug Stuart's proposal for a concession bus fare for post secondary students is hardly what one could term a concession. In brief, it is his suggestion that B.C. Transit provide a cut rate concession card costing the student a base rate of $22/month. Not bad so far, however he qualifies this proposal by indicating students would be willing to pay an additional 50 cents for one zone, 85 cents for 2 zone and $1.25 for 3 zone travel during peak hours. A few calculations show the average student at BCIT or any of the other lower mainland post secondary institutions, who must travel during peak times, would pay up to $42/month for single zone bus travel to and from this school. Not a hell of a savings considering a single zone farecard costs $40/month.

Mr. Stuart is obviously lobbying for university students whose classes often don't start until 9:30 a.m. However, in response to a petition campaign recently conducted at most of the lower mainland post secondary institutions, he has presumptuously taken it upon himself to represent all students who use BC Transit. It is my opinion that Stuart has mistaken the students signing of the petition as a carte blanche acceptance of his proposal, when in fact the petition bears little resemblance to his plan at all.

Canada Career Week

This week (November 4 to 10) has been declared Canada Career Week by Employment and Immigration minister Flora MacDonald.

"Labour market needs are changing rapidly," said MacDonald. "This year's theme, Career Transitions, is aimed at all Canadians, from students making the transition from school to work, to people already in the labour, to women entering the work-place after a long absence."

During Canada Career Week, co-sponsored by the University and College Placement Association and the Canadian Guidance and Counselling Association, many educational and community organizations, as well as Canada Employment Centres (CECs), will feature activities designed to focus attention on career planning.

This year's slogan, 'Ask Me How', encourages Canadians to enquire about Employment and Immigration Canada's new $4 billion Canadian Jobs Strategy.

"During Canada Career Week we hope that all Canadians will become aware of the tremendous potential of the Canadian Jobs Strategy to help create skilled and lasting employment," MacDonald said.

All CECs have information available on how the new program can help them find jobs or acquire necessary training.

The first game in week three featured the first place Forestry team led by Ray Richard against the up and coming Business team. It was a rough penalty filled game. Business went ahead 2-0 on goals by Brent Waters and John Sanderson. Then Forestry fought back on a goal by Dale Spencer near the end of the second. In an exciting finish Blair Pigeon tied the score at 2 with 40 seconds left in the game.

In game two, Engineering dominated from the start, coasting to a 6-1 final score. On the best passing play of the year Peter Leverman scored while being let up by Gerry Wallace and David Massulito.

Fan support has been building for these exciting games with the most vocal fan this week being BCIT sports chairperson Sherie (Boom Boom) Williams. This Friday features a battle for first place between Forestry and Engineering. Spectators can expect some great entertainment. Be sure to dress warmly.

Women's Intercollegiate Volleyball Tournament results:

BCIT over Selkirk College - 7-15, 15-3, 17-15; Trinity Western College over BCIT - 16-14, 15-3; Cariboo College over BCIT - 15-7, 15-7; Malaspina College over BCIT - 15-4, 15-6.

The women's team started off great with a comeback win over Selkirk College but had trouble in playing consistent volleyball for the balance of the tournament. The team will be working hard in practice to prepare for their next tournament at Cariboo College in Kamloops on November 30th, 1985.
