News travels faster than it happens

The $5 million false alarm

By NICK CARRACIOLO

Well now, you are probably getting bored with this whole mess, and you are probably right. Too much publicity can kill an article just as easily as it can make it. Now it seems like a new twist has appeared upon the great gloom. First of all, let me give my apologies for last week's article; the facts were not totally laid on the table. Apparently I had done a great injustice to Mr. Burt Sproule; he took great offense that he was not mentioned as one of the initiators of the first survey ever taken on student residences. Burt was also responsible for making it mandatory that students fill out a questionaire about student housing requirements. Upon talking to Burt it was revealed to me that the government is quite unreasonable. So, Mr. Sproule, we beg your pardon that you were not on the article. As you must know, it is almost impossible to trace all that has happened within the last five years. I try to get all the facts, but you were apparently overlooked. We hope that you will accept our apology.

Now for the dramatic semifinale to the matter of student residences: All of you students who are bored with it, stick around, as you will find that news begins to pick up and things start getting hot all over for everyone BCIT has proved concerned. conclusively, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that we do need student residences, but the government is like a bureaucratic channel that information must go through the head and come out the tail; the tail that I am referring to is Ottawa. Within this bureaucratic machine it seems like things have around. For those of you who are under the impression that BCIT received the $5 million for student residences, stick around and we will entertain you with the truth. It seems like news gets around faster than it actually happens. The truth of the matter is, that no one has received word about the money that is supposedly supposed to be given to BCIT for residency. Students must learn a valuable lesson from this; one must not believe everything that they hear on the radio or read in any newspaper (excluding the LINK).

We as students are concerned with what will happen within student interests. School news is what it's all about, and if the news is not accurate, then what's the sense of reading it? So, Ultimately the truth is here. Upon talking to Sharon McElroy, Student Council President, the grim facts were revealed. Poor Sharon is on top of the events and seems to have her head in the right place. As we all know, the government does not under any circumstance give out more money than is needed. Since the Student Council does not evenhave the slightest inkling of how much money is needed, how is it possible for the government to hand us the money? Council must first ask for a certain amount before the government even considers giving us any money at all. Naturally, we will ask for more than is needed. The government will offer less than they want to give us, and with a lot of shuffling, shoving and yelling back and forth, an arbitrary figure is reached. The figure will undoubtably be less than is needed and a lot more than the government thought they wanted to give us.

C.M.H.C. will be on campus February 1st to discuss figures with Sharon and the Committee. The meeting should prove to be a huge step forward for the residence and quite a number of steps in the reverse direction for the government. Plans for design and location of the residences will be forthcoming, and everyone seems to be a little pie-eyed at the success happening with the residences.

Let us hope that all this does not blow up in their faces, for the government has been known to pull a few nasty surprises. ie. recent hike in ferry rates, recent hike in sales tax, and exhorbitant insurance premiums. All of us at one time or another have been continued on page 5

Open House

Put training to work by organizing guests

March 18, 19, 20, 1977. Three days which will evidence who and what we are as both a student and a technical college. Open House is your chance to dig in and show Industry what you are made of

It is easy to sit back and watch somebody else work for you; after all, you are here for the sole purpose of getting an education. The most favourable attitude you can adopt is: "If those fools want to show industry how good I am, I probably won't even have to fill out a resume; someone else will do that too." Is this your attitude?

Some of us can, and do, appreciate the advantages in even the most 'crummy' job. What have we been taught here at BCIT? Besides how to play badminton, backgammon, and how to destroy school property, we have or are being taught how to: Organize, Delegate authority, Human relations, Manage business affairs, etc. There are many jobs yet available which will provide YOU, the student, with a practical application of these skills.

Internal affairs wants you and your ability to assist others of your calibre in areas of:

- hospitality hosing
- organized parking
- functional security proceduresoperational guide services

Apply if you dare and find out how to sell yourself and your school. Get in touch with Pat, Terry or Ed Wishart. You might teach us something!

You can get in touch with Ed or Pat by leaving a note in the Hotel-Motel box in the SA office in the SAC building.

Best year ever for store Bearpit session on 16th

Report from the Student Council Meeting, January 26th, 1977.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Neville Millar, Vice-President Internal... The highlights were...BCIT Residence continues to go well.

President of the Student Association, Sharon McElroy, reported that the recently formed Residence Committee is going very well regarding the proposed student residence. The Residence Committee met with members of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation last Friday (28th) to discuss the appointment of architects. Representatives of the C.M.H.C. will be on campus today (Feb. 2nd) to look around for a suitable location for the residence.

Vice-President External, Gunther Schlieper, reported that there has been a lot of interest shown from the outside (schools, etc.) with respect to the BCIT Open House (March 18, 19 & 20). However, he called for more people to attend the weekly Open House meetings.

The 'Bearpit' session mentioned previously in the LINK is definitely on. It is to be held on the 16th of February in Room 198 between 1 pm and 2:30 pm. It will be a unique opportunity for students to ask the administration some pertinent questions. So, have your questions ready.

Business Manager for the Student Association, Phil Henderson, and Gail Trethewey, the TNT manageress, reported that last year was the most successful year for sales. In the second six months of last year the TNT shops made a profit of $6,090. It perhaps should be mentioned for those students that are unaware, that the TNT shops sell both Western Express ($1) and Provincial ($5) lottery tickets.

Chem & Met somehow managed to get 22 bodies packed into Chris Gattey's old 1964 Windsor during the first run off of the Pre-Grease Night car packing competition, held last Wednesday outside the SAC. As they were the only team to show up, they won the day's event by default. More semi-finals today, and the car will be raffled off at the dance Saturday night. Nick Carraciolo photo.

Chem & Met leads car-packing race

Wednesday was a day to remember as 22 mad impetuous Chemistry and Metallurgical students, (boys and girls alike) wriggled their way into a 1964-Chrysler Windsor.

It was quite an event to see. The boys seemed to have fun while the girls were unusually quiet. Putting the 22 students into the car was quite a remarkable feat, but getting them out was a totally different story altogether.

Somehow they managed to get out and it must have been quite a relief to the person at the bottom of the pile. While there was an impressive audience the packing did not draw the crowd it should have. Some thirty bystanders were onlooking, eagerly waiting to give a hand to the dismal students.

Some stared in amazement as one by one the students clamoured into the car. A push here, a squeeze there, and a miraculous shove, and victory at last! The car looked like a human sardine can with intellectual sardines at that

All in all it was a good show. Since Chem and Met. was the only technology to show up on Wednesday they will be competing against the winners today at High Noon. If your technology wants to try their hand at beating the record of 22 then come out and try your bodies at it. The LINK staff suggests you get the small bodies and small minds together and accumulate it into one lump; in that way one may get more intellectuals into the tin can. The finals will be held on Grease Night on February 4th and 5th.

Tickets are practically all sold for Grease Night this Friday and Saturday, starring the infamous Teen Angel and the Rockin' Rebels. Anyone still wanting tickets is advised to get over to this 'n that as soon as possible.

Will Lewis be out $1000?

On Wednesday afternoon, Charlie Lewis, a Commissionaire happened to misplace his portable radio. But when he realized what he had done, the radio was nowhere to be Apparently, some unconcerned do-do must have taken it-The truth of the matter is, that the radio is absolutely useless to anybody but the commissionaires since it has only one band that cannot be changed unless you are an electronic genius. The radio is worth roughly $1400.00 which an awful lot of money by anybody's standards. Sgt. Lewis waited the usual 24-hour period for someone to return it, but since no one did return it, the Police had to get involved. The LINK staff and Sgt. Lewis are asking that if anyone did happen to find it, they should return it to the publications office or to any discreet location so that it may be returned. If it does not get returned, someone may be out an oversized paycheck. The D.P.W. is ironing out the insurance claim, but as yet it is in a premature state. Nobody knows what the outcome of the settlement will be. Since the units are leased from a local firm, it is difficult to tell what the insurance will do. If the insurance company is anything like I.C.B.C., it will be sure to get as much blood as possible. This will mean that inevitably someone will have to dish out some money. That someone could possibly be Mr. Lewis. This could end up to be a very tight drain on his budget. It is up to the students to get the initiative and find it for him; Charlie would be very grateful. He will be so grateful that he is even willing to put out a reward of his hard-earned money to anyone who finds or returns it. The R.C.M.P. advised us that we could not say "no questions asked", but who is to know if it is mysteriously found and returned. And, as a gesture of goodwill, he or she will find themselves in a better financial

Do not misunderstand that every time someone steals they will received financial status, but if it is found by mistake (and we all know mistakes are bound to happen) then there is no reason why they should not.

It is unfortunate that stealing does occur in a culture that is so advanced as ours, but is does and students frown upon this. We are not suggesting that the radio was stolen. We are sure that it was a case of mistaken identity so it is up to you. If you do know the whereabouts of the radio, please report it to the LINK staff. Your co-operation will be greatly ap-

Chipmunk chatting great for derriere development

In response to Dear W. Sid Andersen, c/o so many depressed Forestry students, Better known as,

Supporters of moral decadence among Forestry students:

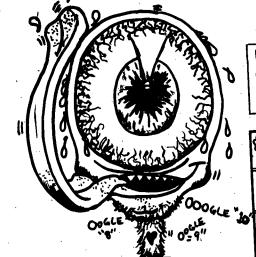

After a year of being discreet with our attentions, we the derriere voyeurs and bisep pursuers from the professional closet of the R.N. multitude, have decided to speak out and emerge in defense of appreciation of male anatomy.

While seemingly intensely studying our enlarged prostate syndrome handouts, we discreetly saunter into the cafeteria. An unobtrusively raised eyebrow signals the "rest of the pack" of the approach of a Flour Duster machismo muffin maker.

.While drinking coffee, a cautiously crooked pinky denotes the arrival of the "Field and Stream" center-folds (none the least S.F.) from surveying, who on sunnier days are too intrigued with their tripods and bending to adjust their lenses to notice the Nurses studying personal anatomy.

And to YOU, our pine scenter friends from Forestry, though chatting to chipmunks and supervising shrubs may not develop mental capacity, you would not believe (???) what it does to your Rectus Abdominus! Don't think it's going unnoticed. So, while you're thinking, you are Oogling

Editor "Link"

Would it be possible to have this response published in the next issue of the Link. Thank you.

Dear Ms./Mr. M. Kluckner:

In response to your inquiry in the last Link "Gow bout the Occasional Cafe" I would like to give you the following explana-

It was agreed with your association to have the S.A.C. Cafeteria ipen from 9:00 am - 3:00 pm on a trial basis from January 1 to 31, 1977. These hours were maintained until Jan. 7 when we experienced that numerous people were in the Cafeteria prior to 8:00 am. As business proved to be very minimal from 2:00 pm to 3:00 pm (figures are available to the executive of your associa-tion), we suggested to your association to change the business hours to 8:00 am to 2:45 pm and on Jan. 17 to 7:15 am to 2:00 pm. These changes were made in full agreement with the executives of your association. The 7:15 am change was also made to avoid the heavy traffic around 8:00 am which delayed our vehicle and resulted in the late opening which you mentioned. We sympathize with your desire to have a freshly brewed cup of cofee at all times however, we are sure that you recognize the difficulty of providing such a service if the business volume is non existent. Do not hesitate to drop in at our office, Mr. Sim and I would be very pleased to give you more information and figures. There is always the possibility that you may assist us by having recommendations which can be implemented.

Girl reads through nose

Hot schoop to avid readers of latest medical students.

"TOKYO (EMS—CUP) Medical researchers in Tokyo are studying a 10 year old Sayuri Tanaka's claim that she can see through her nose. Scientists have found that, with her eyes completely masked, the girl can see television programs, read books, and catch a ball thrown to her. The researchers are now trying to find out why her nostrils have 20-20 vision.

This is a remarkable new dimension for students of all categories since, if the secret is found out, students will be able to do their homework with their eyes closed.

'Thanks for showing faces of staff'

LINK Editor:

No, not "Dear Sir" yet!

I do not doubt that a few clowns did laugh at the PUB demonstration put on by the haywire Forestry students, but this can be expected from the clientele the PUB caters to. Yes, surely you know that the readership of the LINK is made up of many depraved people. It was well documented in the 1960's that in any Student-Staff population there is a depraved minority with big mouths. At BCIT we can assume this number to be around 450, so I will extend my apology to the 25 innocent souls who made the mistake of slumming the ''night of the mooners''

Regarding my writing to the Vancouver Sun about ''nude ladies'' - you must know that the Sons of Freedom have a religious cause to fight for, right or wrong. What cause are the mooners fighting for? Is the LINK policy intended to also discriminate against a specific religious group?

I have only your word that the LINK is not run by rank amateurs and would-be hot-shot cub reporters (to-date no evidence to the contrary). Naturally, you have to offer the LINK free of charge. Who would buy it? Try charging for it sometime and not the drastic drop in circulation perhaps it would stable off at around 450 copies. You've got a good thing going for you, Mr. Editor - subsidized by student funds.

Your responsibility is also to off campus readers. I must assume, whether they like it or not, that every LINK publication is mailed out to all Advisory Committee members, Board members and other Colleges and Universities. You should know that business people are not tuned in on student humour. Why not stop plagiarizing the worst of college humour and strive to make the LINK stand out above all the other student rags across Canada? Unfortunately, this would take talent and it is easier for the LINK editorial staff to revert to pornography and cater to the depraved minority.

Mr. Bob Slavik should check his laboratory reports carefully before turning them in. It's usually minus two when a student misspells an instructor's name. I must assume that Mr. Slavik is somewhere in the Baja California snap.

In closing, I wish to thank the LINK editor for displaying the faces of his editorial staff in the last publication.

Sid Andersen Senior Instructor Biological Sciences

If the shoe fits....

Mr. Andersen:

I would like to believe that your letters have been written with tongue firmly in cheek but, in case they haven't, I would like to point out a few interesting mistakes in your last letter.

One point: You state that '60's documentation indicates a certain ''depraved minority with big mouths' in any Student-Staff population. Since presumably such a minority would be a random one, you have nicely provided a niche and appropriate label for yourself.

Finally, I don't know of anyone on the editorial or photographic staff who professes to be anything but an amateur. Certainly, nobody has claimed to be a "hot shot cub reporter" in the Woodward tradition.

The most annoying thing about letters such as yours is their tendency to rely heavily on destructive criticism rather than constructive suggestions. We of the LINK staff, just like you in the teaching end of this school, can use all the constructive help we can get.

Robert Owen, LINK photographer

Dear Sid: why not add your "finesse" to the LINK?

It seems you are just not satisfied with criticizing our readership as being depraved; you are now turning against the patrons of BCIT pubs. You are really quite unpredictable. We get the impression that you put down on paper the first thing that comes into your head.

The LINK is offered free of charge; the cost of production comes out of the Student Association budget, similar to any college or university. It is a very popular newspaper produced with the readership of BCIT students primarily in mind. We are sure that any off-campus reader will accept the student antics for what they are...just an opportunity to let off some steam.

We do not attempt to plagiarize the worst of 'college humour'; just reflect student life at BCIT. If some of that student life is considered pornography by some people, we are sorry, but we are only presenting the facts. The aim of this newspaper is not to cater to the general public, but to report on student happenings as they actually happened. If, for some reason, some people like to do weird things to relieve the humdrum of BCIT living, then who are we to hide it in the corner. and not report it? This would break down everything that a paper stands for. The LINK must and WILL rport on everything that it can get their hands on; if it is good or bad, it will go into the paper. News is news, and to deprive the general student body of it would mean that we as publishers are not doing our jobs thoroughly. As to your statement "rank amateurs", the LINK staff feels that you are totally and unjustifiably crude in your remark. Since you do not even know who is running the paper, may I tell you that it is the students who make the paper, and to call the students "rank amateurs" is to reflect on you and the whole faculty who are teaching us to become responsible citizens. It is no doubt that you are a responsible teacher and your character as well as the character of the school staff is rubbed off on the student body. The students reflect the school, and this reflection apparently does no appeal to you; but the students at BCIT are hard workers and extremely intelligent. The LINK staff has a duty towards their schooling first and then to any other extra-curricular activities. We are very busy with a host of other activities, such as school, homework, and consequently do not have all the time that we would like to devote to publications. I am sure that the students will agree with the staff of the LINK that it is coming along extremely well in correspondence to the amount of time that we can devote to the paper. Sir, if you think that you can add some finesse to the paper, we would be glad to have you on our staff. Then and only then will you realize that is is not as easy as you think to put out the paper. The paper would like to put an end to this frivolous nonsense about our cover in the previous issue. What has been done is done, and there is no way that you may change it. The LINK must and will put all the news in the paper because we cannot get intimidated by you of anybody else. To do so would mean our self defeat. Your comments will be appreciated, but force will be of no value. The press must be free to report all, no matter how distasteful to some people, the majority is what counts and to leave them out is to reduce democracy to a dictatorship.

Cougars' attitude only "horseshit"

Dear Editor:

Where has basketball sportsmanship gone? That's a very good question, glad I asked it. In last week's LINK I wrote an article on basketball sportsmanship (the lack of it) and in that very same LINK there was a great article ''Good break for VCC a 'steal' for us,'' which showed the total lack of sportsmanship in men's Cougar Basketball.

The article reads, "Friday, January 21, BCIT hosted VCC Falcons in a rugged Totem conference league battle." First a basketball game is not supposed to be rugged and second it is definitely not supposed to be a battle. This is probably just a bad choice of words in describing the game, which incidently I did not see. I am getting my information from the LINK article.

Stan Markowski, the manager of the Cougars, and the author of the article from which I am getting my information, goes on to say that VCC comes into the second half with a 44-36 lead, built up mainly on the strength of 3 point plays and a gifted double technical foul on the Cougars. Stan then goes on to tell how the Cougars narrowed the gap to four and*were about to get within two when the referee called the Cougars for an offensive foul. The rest is history. The Cougars got a triple-technical foul from the play on top of the offensive foul.

For those of you who don't know how a team gets a technical foul, one is handed out for telling the referee off by either a player, a coach, or any other personsitting on that team's bench. A double technical is handed out to a team which persistently argues the point. A triple technical foul is given to a team which argues the point beyond any reasonable argument. The fact that the Coúgars got a double-technical and a triple-technical foul in the same game shows the total lack of control the players and coaching staff have over their emotions. Emotions as strong as these have no place in a basketball game. If these emotions are so strong that the Cougars cannot control them I suggest they become the Cougar boxing team where you need the killer instinct. Cougar's 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8..... Sportsmanship still 0.

The straw which broke the camel's back was when Stan said that the triple-technical broke the Cougars psychologically and that's why they lost the game. May I suggest that when you are using all your brains on your mouth with none left over for basketball that you are going to lose games. A foul may or may not be "HORSESHIT," but getting huffy only makes things worse. If the Cougars had kept their cool they might have had a chance. As far as I am concerned the only "HORSESHIT" in the Cougars basketball is their atti-

Students not on back of de bus

Dear Editor, LINK:

On my routine visits to the men's washrooms, I notice separate washrooms for "Gentlemen Staff" and the other, apparently, is for students. This reminds me of the past "white" and "black" discrimination in the southern U.S.A. Perhaps somebody could tell me why this type of discrimination exists at BCIT?

P. Jeng, 1st yr.

In reply to your letter, I did some routine investigation and it seems that BCIT has no policy that students cannot use the staff washrooms. There are actually two reasons why they were built the way they were. The first reason is that the staff did not want to clutter up the space available as there is a smaller number of staff and it avoided Secondly, which confusion. appears to be the most viable reason, is that if by some chance a professor was lurking about without the students being aware that he was there, and if the students were having a friendly conversation about that particular prof.....As you can see this might cause some difficult situations. Dick Melville, director of information services, was quite understanding about the whole thing. The washrooms were not meant to discriminate between teacher and student. If you want to use the staff washroom, then by all means go ahead and use it; I'm sure that no one will deprive you of the satisfaction of doing your own thing.

Both Cougar basketball teams still in Monday, January 24th, BCIT Cougars hosted Puget Sound Bible College in an exhibition game won by the visitors 86-59. Both clubs traded baskets early before the Anchormen snapped an 8-8 deadlock and routed BCIT 29-8 to close out the first half leading 37-16. Cougars shot a poor 21 per cent against the tall. Puget Sound club to cap a rather inept half.

BCIT opened the second half with an effective press forcing the visitors into costly turnovers to make the contest much more interesting. Co-captain Gennaro Magistrale turned in another solid effort, leading the club with 14 points, 10 rebounds, 4 assists and 4 steals. Peter Novakov added 13 points, 5 rebounds, and 4 assists in a strong second-half effort. They were ably supported by co-captain Dawson Brenner with 8 points and his usual big performance on the boards with a game-high 10 rebounds.

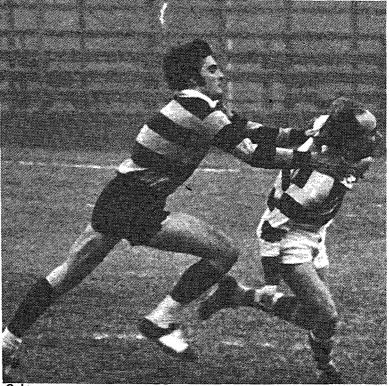

Friday evening, Capilano College Blues hosted BCIT in two key Totem Conference contests. The women Cougars turned back Capilano 67-57 on the strength of a good 40 per cent field goal shooting percentage combined with strong team defense. Brenda Walman led the Cougars with an astounding 30 points, the result of good feeds on the fast break from the Cougar forwards and from her exceptional outside shooting. BCIT broke the game wide open early in the second stanza with 10 straight points, most of this damage courtesy of forwards Sandie MacLaurin and Julie Bekesi, who combined for 19 of their 22 points in that half. Barb Clayton added 11 points also, but was most effective leading the board show with 13 rebounds before fouling out near the game's end.

Weekend's basketball

In Intramural basketball over the weekend Gas and Oilers beat Forestry Ooglers 65-38. Admin. Man. beat Bio-Science 75-29 and Survey beat Broadcast 36-30.

Wally Rowan told the LINK that these games should be foul-free — "This is not a contact game," he said.

Goina

The men's club continued its dominance over Capilano College with a 75-66 victory over the host Blues. Capilano opened the game with hot outside shooting and forced BCIT into a number of turnovers on the press, continually maintaining a 10 point bulget over the visitors. Cougars finally untracked themselves with their dominance on the defensive boards, a few fast breaks and some Capilano fouls for an 11 point explosion before the Blues could regain their poise. Down 34-33 at half time, BCIT chased the Blues in the second, finally overhauling the home club 47-45. At that point, Capilano's coach picked up a pair of technicals and BCIT capitalized there, and on the ensuing play to open up a 10 point edge. The fourth quarter saw a trade-off of hoops by both clubs and a Cougar victory. Cougars led by the trio of Allan McEwan and co-captains Gennaro Magistrale and Dawson Brenner. McEwan led the scoring show with 22 points, much of it on deadly outside shooting. Brenner added 19 points in an outstanding display of court leadership.

Hockey takes two from Okanagan

The BCIT Cougars hockey team travels to Kamloops this weekend for a pair of important games against league-leading Cariboo College. The Cougars, who currently hold down second place, need at least one win to clinch a play-off berth in the Totem Conference.

However, this will be no easy task as Cariboo is reputed to play an abrasive style of hockey which, if their 7-0-1 record is any indication, seems to pay off.

Last week's action saw the Cougars take two games from visiting Okanagan College 6-3 and 5-4. The spectators (yes, believe it or not, there were some fans) were treated to a pair of exciting games, the final contest in doubt until the last second.

The Cougars, two men short with thirty seconds left in the game and leading by one goal, held off a strong Okanagan attack to gain the narrow victory. The wins were due in no small part to sheer hard work by the forwards and good consistent goal tending by Norm Whittaker and Tom Young. (Don't let this go to your head, you guys!).

Finally, the Cougars wish to thank those who could tear themselves away from the pubs (and bring their grog with them to the games) to lend some much-needed vocal support. As for the rest of you apathetic bums, you have one last chance to redeem yourselves on February 11 and 12, as BCIT plays a return match against Cariboo. Do yourself a favour, there's more of a chance of BCIT winning than the Vancouver Canucks, and it's a lot cheaper!

Current standings have Cariboo leading with 15 points, followed by BCIT with 11, Selkirk with 9 and Okanagan with one point.

Intramural ice hockey results

Games played on Saturday, January 22nd, had Forestry A clobbering Marketing 15-3. In the other game played, I & S/Bio Science nipped E&E by a score of 4-3. On Wednesday, January 26th, C&S II defaulted to Mechanical. Unfortunately, C&S II is having to combine with another team for the remainder of the season due to lack of players. Also, C&S I lost to E&E I by a score of 2-1, and Building smashed Forest Products by a score of 8-1. A reminder to team captains who have games on Saturday night: Please return the game score sheet to Wally Rowan or to the Athletic Office so that the scores can be recorded.

Good japanese food? Ah-so!

By KAREN DARWOON
Ah-So Gardens

30-8th Street New Westminster, B.C. 526-9533

Located just half block up from Columbia Street, this Japanese steak and seafood Restaurant is the only one of its kind in new Westminster. Did you know that Wew West is the sister city of Moriguchi, Japan?

The atmosphere is something in itself. Each party (be it 2 or 30) is seated in an individual room. Shoes off please, to preserve the mats. In fact, some people call the little room (Tatami room) a 'footsi room'. The service is in traditional style, by kimono clad waitresses.

Now a word about the food: delicious. The Japanese have way of cooking vegetables until they?

re done, right not a soggy mush. For seafood lovers, there's fresh Pacific Abalone, cooked with bean sprouts and celery. Or, try the Sukiyaki Steak. The cook may even cook part of the meal in front of you. Dinners range from about $7-14 and include soup, salads, appetizer, main course and dessert. A number of native specialties are also available.

The restaurant is licensed, with a special feature. Some drinks come in a porcelain "Statuette". It's $3.50, but well worth it because the statue goes home with you. Japanese wine sake is available, as well as some other wines at a moderate mark up. Open Monday to Friday 11:30 - 2:30 and 4:30 - 10:30, Saturday 4:30 - 11:30, and Sunday 4:30 - 10:30. Reservations recommended for weekends.

"Dick" shot 60 percent from the field, 7 for 7 at the foul line, collected a game high 15 rebounds and rallied the Cougars in the early going as we were forced to come from behind early. Magistrale continued his excellent playwith 12 points, 14 rebounds, and a game high 6 steals in a classic defensive role. The supporting cast combined for another 22 points, 22 rebounds, and 13 steals as Cougars evened their league record to 2-2.

Saturday evening Cougars were hosted by Douglas College. and responded with twin league victories. The girls smashed the Tartanettes 68-49 in the opener. Barb Clayton fed Sandie Mac-Laurin immediately on the center jump. BCIT raced to an early 10-0 lead on the strength of outstanding defensive rebounding and a devastating fast break. Douglas' shooting was poor to that point until they capitalized on a BCIT foul to break the ice. Constant turnovers plagued the Tartanettes. BCIT converted these well with Julie Bekesi and Sandie MacLaurin running wild in the low post for 29 first half points. Julie was exceptional with 12 points after only 10 minutes of play, 4 straight step-and-a-half plays and quick garbage collection of missed Cougar shots for the Sylvia Potts fired in some long bombs from the left forward side to continue the first - half rout. The second half saw Douglas retaliate somewhat to get within 15 points, much of this on hot outside shooting from their guards. BCIT continued its inside dominance scoring 24 of its 27 second-half points from there, the remaining three from the foul line. Sandie MacLaurin led the BCIT show with a game high 23 points and 14 rebounds. Julie and Barb were outstanding also collecting 20 points and 11 rebounds and 10 points and 10 rebounds respectively. Sylvia added 7 points and 7 rebounds to complement the fine effort inside. Sharing BCIT's scoring remainder were Brenda Walman with 5 and Zoe Makinson 3.

In the men's contest, BCIT prevailed 76-66 over the Tartans in a hell of a total team effort. The first half was extremely close, both clubs trading the lead for a total of 10 changes. BCIT finally went ahead to stay breaking a 26-26 stalemate with 6 unanswered points. Douglas College countered the eight-point gap with 2 late points, 12 seconds from the end of the half but BCIT stuck one in at the buzzer, Allen McEwan directing a rebound off the glass. while in mid-air and the clock reading 0:00.

BCIT ran crazy in the early going in the second half and forced a desperate Douglas timeout with the game well in Cougars' control 49-32. Tartans scored and BCIT replied with vet another 6 biggies for a fat 55-34 margin. The second half outburst was splendid indeed. BCIT fastbreaking the Tartans out of their kilts for an amazing 7 straight field goals on 7 shots with guards Pat Hanrahan and Roger St. Syr sharing that limelight. Hanrahan led the Cougars scoring with 18 points, 12 in that early second half runaway.

St. Cyr added 12 and shared the rebound lead with 10. So balanced was BCIT's second half, that everyone played, everyone scored and every Cougar hit for at least one field-goal. Dawson Brenner added 8 points and as many rebounds; Gennaro Magistrale another 7 points and 7 rebounds and Peter Novakov with 2 points, but another 10 collections of the boards.

Both Cougar clubs can solidify their second-place Totem standing with victories this weekend. We ask fans to take a break from the Brylcream and bobbie sock atmosphere for a few hours this Friday evening to cheer us on when we host Douglas. Saturday we play at Capilano College in North Vancouver.

VCC is leading the league in men's action with 10 points, followed by BCIT with 6, Douglas with 2 and Capilano with zilch.

In women's play VCC is again out ahead with 10, followed by BCIT with 6, Capilano with 2 and this time Douglas with 0.

Stan Markowski, Manager, BCIT Basketball.

The increase in costs of officials and rental areas force penalty charges to be assessed on default teams. In U. of Calgary, for instance, teams must post a $50 bond which is refunded when the schedule is completed without

In the '77-78 BCIT Intramural Program, we would like to give the participants the activities they want to join with as few as possible regulations or penalties. We want your representatives at meetings to tell us what to prepare and restrict in our fun-time program.

The budget will determine the cost per activity. Your student fees is our source for money. How much goes to intramurals and what programs you want is up to you!

I would like to prepare an intramural booklet in early May with as much pertinent information to give to the student on arrival. This will assist them in planning their activities and to ensure maximum participation.

Our program this year is being monitored by quite a few other institutes and may pave the way for them to develop similar programs which in turn could lead to some inter-collegiate intramural events. Your Student Council should be complimented for their endeavours to provide maximum funding for your program.

Supreme Kid debuts February 4

By LES THOMPSON

"THE SUPREME KID" is an episodic movie that follows the adventures of Ruben (Frank Moore) and Wes (Jim Henshaw), a couple of modern day hoboes, and the motley crew of people whose paths they cross as they thumb their way through life.

Ruben, wise in the ways of police and men and who has learned the rules of the road, like when to duck and when to steal, is one of those guys who belongs to that particular race of wrong doers, who remains the same from one age to another. He leads life on a day to day basis, facing the unexpected and the accidental along the way. For Ruben, bumming is serious bus-iness; as he says, "It's hard to hit a moving target."

Wes, his 'travelling compa-nion', on the other hand seems more like a college kid on vacation and goes along with Ruben for the ride—until he discovers that the song Ruben sings is a true one.

In a cheap, run-down rooming house, the quixotic pair meet Wilbur (Don Granbery), one of those disquieting dreamers, a hold over from the depression making ends meet by being a petty thief. His greatest ambition is to achieve, "the big time heist". His crazy dream becomes a nightmare of reality. As events unfold Ruben and Wes are caught up in Wilbur's actions, and when Wilbur dies while committing armed robbery, they witness the event. Ruben is hit hard by the death, and jumps off a bridge. However, being a creature of instinct, a survivor, he emerges from the water ready to live again.

The movie is rich in its characterizations. From the odd, out of step and time Wilbur, to funky bikers, a homosexual religious con man, greasers, tow truck operators, police, jailbirds, bums and lovers. All of them somewhat eccentric, all of them somewhat

The film is highlighted by thematic original songs and music:

Life on the road ain't easy It comes at ya hard and fast You know it gets pretty sleazy So you just gotta play if for laughs

It's hard to hit a moving target So just keep doing your dance Stay on your toes, keep thumb-

Your nose, and lay back and wait

For your chance.

("Moving Target," lyrics by Howie Vickers.) The Canadian Premier of this film is February 4 at the Broadway Odeon Twin Theatre. Don't
