Tony Bates

Executive Director
Research and Strategic Planning, Open Learning Agency

Dr. Tony Bates specializes in the technology of open and distance learning and has worked in over 30 countries as a consultant on educational media. Currently he is executive director for Research and Strategic Planning at the Open Learning Agency of B.C. Before that he was professor, and a founding member, of Educational Media Research at the British Open University and technical advisor on media and technology to the European Association of Distance Teaching Universities.

Elmer E. Froese

Superintendent of Schools
Burnaby School District

Superintendent of Schools, Burnaby School District, since 1973, Dr. Elmer E. Froese is noted at home and abroad for his interest in such matters as the process of educational change and the application of technology to educational change. His numerous appointments include membership on the B.C. Royal (Sullivan) Commission on Education, on the Canadian Education Association President's Council, on The Role of Education in the Future of Canada, and on the Board of Governors of Science World of B.C.

Milton McClaren

Associate Professor, Education
Simon Fraser University

Milton McClaren, associate professor of Education and associate member of the Faculty of Science at Simon Fraser University, has worked extensively in education related to science and the environment and, among other things, is responsible for SFU's Kelowna Tele-Learning Centre, a site for research and development in the application of computers to education. He has also worked with the B.C. Ministry of Education as a facilitator for Bold Visions think tanks on the Year 2000.

Lee Clements-Nazarali

Manager, Leadership Education
BC Tel

As a group leader and program facilitator, Lee Clements-Nazarali specializes in enhancing people's skills as leaders and as managers of such aspects of business life as change and conflict, personal growth, performance, and communication. Currently, as manager of leadership education for BC Tel, she organizes training programs in developing leadership. Previously she was manager of employee development at Microtel Ltd.

Anne Ironside

Director, Future of Work Project
UBC Continuing Studies

Community-based learning centres and economic, political, and social issues affecting Canadian women are main interests of Anne Ironside (MSW), director of the UBC Continuing Studies project on the Future of Work, founder of the Women's Resource Centre in downtown Vancouver, and member of New Work Associates, a Vancouver group who help people to lead self-determined lives. Ms. Ironside has chaired a task force on skill development leave, has published many articles, and, in 1983, became the first woman president of the Canadian Association for Adult Education.
